Clairvoyance may have kicked in. It's important to keep your emotions in check.

3. Wouldn't it be intuitive if I was able to have the words to find my path and to help others in their path too?

Sure. As long as you are. The message that comes with attachment is unclouded. Intuition is not unclouded. Understand that fog has emerged in the channel between me and the universe.

Laser like detachment from the outcome and a complete openness to whatever is coming. Intuitive decision-making works. When faced with indecision: Till you clarify do nothing. Intuition need not be proven, and no one has to accept it. Ask the Universe for the sign which is very compliant.

4. How do you differentiate between the actual intuition talking to you and one feeling where you feel like drawn to something else?

If you want to travel somewhere, in your awareness that you can travel, a desire will show up and you will just want to do it. The desire is born through us. There's no point in entering the kingdom of the hungry. There's also a desire to do something. And an impulse to call something.

5. In this intuitive work that we do, can we explore the fear of returning? I have limiting belief that by believing that it may return, am I really inviting it to return?

You can explore more than one intuition. See what will happen. Reflect. If you decide to go with confusion and say that fear might come back and the third can be on the actual physical ailment. Go with it. The body will give you what else you need to free yourself from. Actually, feeling not we're in charge of is why we call it the intuitive flow.

6. Can we explore a past illness and the fear of it returning through the intuitive flow process?

Yes, you can. You can explore more than one thing if you want to.
